DETAILED ACTION

Election of Species

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

2. The species are as follows:

- A) At least one acetal or semi-acetal of an acyclic terpene compound.
 - See instant claims 4-30. Applicant is required to elect a single species of acetal or semi-acetal of an acyclic terpene compound (see instant claims 4-25). Moreover, Applicant is invited to pick the presence or absence of a 'further comprising' acetal or semi-acetal of an acyclic terpene compound (see instant claims 26-30). If Applicant elects to include a 'further comprising' component, Applicant will be required to elect a specific species for examination.

3. Co-examination of the above species would impose a serious search burden upon the Examiner. Each of the above species is distinct from one another and would result in composition with different chemical and biological properties. Additionally, the acetal or semi-acetal of an acyclic terpene repellent compounds are disclosed by the prior art. See WO 00/19822 to Behan et al.. Behan teaches that citral diethyl acetal (contains an acetal radical; see instant claim 4, left structure) is a compound that is useful in methods of repelling insects (see Example 1; see instant claim 1).

4. Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

5. Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

6. The following claim(s) are generic: 1-32.

7. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the reasons discussed above.

Correction of Inventorship

8. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
